Workshop on Guidebook on Sustainable Environmental Practices for Marinas & Boatyards in T&T

TTCSI's Director Marlon Charles (Institute of Architects of T&T), Member Relations Officer Sherry Hassanali, and representatives from TTCSI's member, Yacht Services Association of T&T, attended a workshop on the Guidebook on Sustainable Environmental Practices for Marinas and Boatyards in Trinidad and Tobago on February 6th at the IMA Auditorium, Chaguaramas. The Workshop sought to sensitize industry stakeholders to the contents of the Guidebook.

The Ministry of Trade and Industry in collaboration with the Environmental Management Authority (EMA) and the Institute of Marine Affairs (IMA), developed the Guidebook in alignment with Trinidad and Tobago's sustainable development agenda. The Guidebook also provides measures to ensure that the growth in the Yachting Industry is achieved in a manner that is environmentally responsible. A copy of the Guidebook is available on the Ministry's website via this link <https://tradeind.gov.tt/yachting-guidebook/>.

TTCSI OPPORTUNITIES

IADB Call for Expression of Interest (EOI)

(Eligible creative artists (musicians, technologists, coders, designers, etc.)

The Inter-American Development Bank is opening a call for expression of interests (EOI) from eligible creative artists (musicians, etc.) and technologists (coders, designers, etc.) to actively explore new technologies that solve real-world issues in the music industry. Applying technology such as blockchain or artificial intelligence to the creative industries unlocks a world of new solutions and market opportunities.

This EOI is looking for problem solvers who can work together with creative artists from the music industry to apply their expertise in technology to address real-world issues. Leading technologists and industry players will converge at a two-day Creative Technology Workshop with the aim of creating prototypes for improving music monetization. Visit the website at:

Innovation Forum's Sustainable Apparel and Textiles Conference (9th-10th April, Amsterdam) 	IF's Sustainable Apparel and Textiles Conference which takes place in Amsterdam from 9th-10th April is a two-day event which will address the most pressing issues relevant to the apparel and textile industry. With an emphasis on circularity, transparency and ethical trade, this conference will equip delegates with the best-practice and know-how relating to the biggest opportunities – and challenges – in transforming apparel supply chains. IF will bring together stakeholders from across the chain, including brands, key NGOs, government, supply chain actors and finance. The focus will remain on driving progress that works for business and all supply chain actors. See details at website: https://innovationforum.co.uk/conferences/sustainable-apparel-and-textiles-conference. To register online, visit: https://innovationforum.co.uk/conferences/sustainable-apparel-and-textiles-conference/register      Sustainable Apparel and Textiles Conference How brands can transform factories, increase transparency and implement circularity in fashion and textile supply chains 9th-10th April 2019 Amsterdam
IDB Cartoon & Illustration Contest on the future of work 	The Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) announces the launch of its third edition of the Cartoon and Illustration Contest under the theme “The Future of Work”. This Contest seeks applications from the most creative cartoonists and illustrators in all IDB member countries in Latin America and the Caribbean. Faced with an environment in which technology will transform both the way we work and the occupations we know today, this contest invites participants to use their creativity to show, through cartoons and illustrations, how they imagine technology will shape the future of work. The contest focuses on the future of work for the private sector as well as for government and public administration and broadens the scope beyond cartoons to incorporate all kinds of illustrations (both funny and serious). The cartoons and illustrations must be submitted on or before March 31, 2019 at 23:59 Washington, D.C. time (EST). For rules and regulations and additional information on how to participate, visit the Cartoon and Illustrations Contest website: The Future of Work at https://www.iadb.org/en/news/idb-launches-cartoon-and-illustration-contest-future-work.
